ALMA MATER

In thy pillar'd portals, faith and knowledge grow;
From thy grounds and hallways, fun and fellowship
glow,

Lift we hearts and voices, Alma Mater, to thee,
Symbol of our ideals, dear old W. T.
Symbol of our ideals, dear old W. T.

Long will we remember, looking backward to thee,
Inspirations you've brought us, courage, loyalty;
Raise we all our voices, our hearts beckon to thee;
Through the years we ask this, keep us worthy of thee,
Symbol of our ideals, dear old W. T.

FOREWORD

During this year, we have realized what our education here will mean to us in the future.

Winchester has given her best to us, and equipped us well to deal with life. We have acquired more than factual knowledge, we have acquired knowledge of life. We may forget that "memini" takes the genitive, but we will never forget the thorough and scholarly way Miss Johnston has taught us to approach our problems. We may forget that "partir" is conjugated with "être," but we will never forget how Madame has taught us to look for the beauty in life. We may forget who wrote "Defense of Poesie," but we will never forget the respect for the great minds and sincere hearts that Miss Philput has taught us. We may forget many dates in History and many terms in Biology, but we will leave Dr. Woodbury's classes truly loving the ideals of our country, and we will leave Miss Burkhouse's laboratory feeling humble and awestruck before the order of the universe. Yes, we will forget much, but we will remember the great things, the things that will guide us in the business of living, and help us to guide others.

Whether we become business and professional women or mothers, we will find opportunities to share the knowledge, integrity, sincerity, and courage Winchester has taught us. There will be many people, whether our friends, associates, or families, whom only we can reach, and only we can influence. It is our responsibility to use and share the mental and spiritual richness we have gained here.

Winchester has brought out the best in us, may we, too, bring out the best in those we meet.

SJM

Nous dédions le Thistledown à Madame Yagodkin

Sa bonté—son amabilité (qui se manifeste dans tout ce qu'elle fait), sa jeunesse d'esprit qui la rend sensible à nos problèmes et à nos rêves, son sens d'esprit qui nous fait voir le ridicule dans tant de choses—l'inspiration qu'elle nous donne pour mettre au monde notre mieux—ces choses nous la rendront toujours chère.

STUDENT COUNCIL

OFFICERS

Margaret McClementsPresident
Barbara AbneyVice President
Marion MontgomerySecretary
Judy BloughTreasurer

The Student Council is the student government body composed of the four officers of the eighth through twelfth grades. Meetings are held once a month to discuss school problems brought to their attention by Dean Moor, Miss Philput, Mrs. Hovey, or the girls themselves. The most important duty of the Council members is, as class officers and representatives, to work together for the good of the school. The school Community Fund and charity drives are organized and managed by the Council. The members also serve as hostesses at the annual fall open house held for parents. In all their capacities, it is their endeavor to maintain the standards of the school and to keep before the student body the high ideals for which Winchester-Thurston has always stood.

MAY WE QUOTE YOU?

Dr. Woodbury . . . Is there an itsy bitsy Democrat in here?

Miss Johnston . . . Now don't do it piece-meal, girls.

Madame Yagodkin . . . Cherie, vous êtes dans la lune.

Miss Philput . . . Is the room fresh?

Mrs. Loughridge . . . Good morning, ladies.

Miss Fisher . . . Prenez un morceau de papier.

Miss Harris . . . I only work here.

Mrs. Rhodes . . . It's your yearbook—but!

Mrs. Cooper . . . Describe a pencil sharpener, no adjectives allowed.

Miss Dougherty . . . Girls!

Miss Burkhouse . . . Please! Use your grey matter.

Mrs. Kress . . . I get dizzy way up here.

Miss Jones . . . Now, look like a table.

Miss Dunlevy . . . Hie dygel lond.

Miss Chalfant . . . I think I'll start a shoe store.

Miss Townley . . . Are there any more like you downstairs?

Mrs. Manley . . . Now, dear, is that in keeping with the spirit of the school?

Mrs. Wilmurt . . . If you don't stop walking through the fireplace you are going to get burned.

Now the day is over,
Night is drawing nigh,
Shadows of the evening
Steal across the sky.

Jesus, give the weary
Calm and sweet repose,
With thy tenderest blessing
May our eyelids close.

When the morning wakens,
Then may we arise
Pure and fresh and sinless
In thy holy eyes.

ART CLUB

This year, the Art Club, under the friendly supervision of Miss Williams, has a membership of thirty-one girls. Each girl has her individual project. Some students are making leather belts, while others are sketching in charcoal and crayons. The more experienced girls are painting still-lives and portraits in oils.

MISS WILLIAMS

GLEE CLUB

Junior Glee Club

The Glee Club is the Winchester choral group which presents a large number of concerts each year. Classical arrangements, negro spirituals and Broadway hits add to the varied programs. During the winter, concerts are given with Kiski and Shady Side, and for parents and friends. The entire club is divided into Senior, Junior, and Special groups. For several years the Special Glee Club has taken part in a "United We Sing" festival at Carnegie Hall which is broadcast throughout the country. The popularity and success of the Glee Club is due to the untiring and successful efforts of the director, Mrs. Kress.

DRAMATIC CLUB

"All the world's a stage." These and other such terms are familiar to every Dramatic Club member. Individual reading, pantomimes, and helpful criticisms increase the girls' appreciation of the theatrical world. Under the able leadership of Mrs. Wilmurt, the May production of Louisa May Alcott's "Little Women" brought a well deserved round of applause, and marked the completion of another successful year.

FAREWELL

As the night of Graduation, once so distant and awesome, draws nearer, it is hard to believe that this year we shall form the dignified white line which walks up the aisle of Calvary Church. The year has gone by so quickly that we are left a little breathless; we have hardly had time to realize that at last we're Seniors.

We have thought excitedly of the future with its many new experiences, yet we also face it with a sense of nostalgia, for we realize we shall not be together many times again. But we know that little things will keep coming back to us and will always associate themselves with our W. T. days. For it is here that we have spent the happiest years of our lives. More important than the knowledge we have gained or the lasting friendships we have made, is the sense of responsibility, loyalty and honor we have acquired.

As we look back on the last few years, we cannot help but smile: The dances; Hallowe'en parties; Christmas Sings and Sports Events;—The ever-familiar "Who can I take to the Prom?" and "Are you driving to the Slumber Party on Friday night?" How defiantly we said, "We will NOT wear brown oxfords"—but we learned! And those dark Monday mornings when we hadn't quite finished our homework and thought the bell would never ring; or the restless Friday afternoons when we just couldn't concentrate, no matter how hard we tried; the antics and whispers in Senior Study Hall with Mrs. Loughridge constantly pleading, "The Seniors are supposed to be setting an example!" Through the year we learned what that example meant, and we learned the full meaning of our responsibility to ourselves and to our school. We don't feel that we're really leaving Winchester, for, although we shall walk out of the "pillared portals", we know that its spirit will remain forever alive within us. Its experiences will be our most cherished memories, and its ideals will guide us through the many years ahead.
